

MFPI Lecture Series "Politics: Pinoy Style"

The Museum Foundation of the Philippines is pleased to announce a not-to-be-missed series of lectures on Philippine culture and politics leading up to the May 2010 elections entitled "Politics: Pinoy Style."

In cooperation with Yuchengco Museum, the lecture series will kick off with the lecture of:

Prof. Michael L. Tan

Anthropologist and "Pinoy Kasi" columnist

Philippine elections: behind the guns, goons, gold and glitter, Prof. Tan will reexamine the 4G's and propose a deeper analysis of how we are trying to build democracy in a feudal society, which means there are constant negotiations around privilege and power. Elections are a time when the common tao can negotiate and navigate, even if in a limited way. The MFPI and other concerned groups have an obligation to help create more space for that negotiation and navigation.

This will be on Wednesday, Nov 11, 2009 at 6:30 pm at 4th Floor Upper Wing Gallery of Yuchengco Museum, RCBC Plaza, corner Ayala & Sen. Gil J. Puyat Avenues, Makati City. Please do come and also join our MFPI Fellowship that will follow right after the lecture.

Next in Politics: Pinoy Style lecture series...

Manuel L. Quezon III

TV's "The Explainer" and "The Long View" Columnist, in mid-January 2010.

Jose Tence Ruiz

Artist and political satirist, in mid-February 2010.

Jon Santos

Comedian and impersonator par excellence, in mid-March 2010.
